

Development Engineer - Medior

Function type: Freelance - Vast Location: Brussel
Duration: long term Reference: 201907725

Description:

For our customer in the telecom sector, we are looking for a development engineer (medior level).

This development engineer will be responsible of the service and network engineering of the network equipment or the design of the network.

Required Responsibilities

- Collect and translate the business requirements into technical requirements
- Define a solution for the new service architecture implementation
- Collaborate to the writing of RFQ's for equipment's
- Engineer the new configuration of current network equipment
- Adapt the equipment management interfaces for a transparent IT integration
- Responsible for high level design
- Ensures all data is available for the designing phase and protects data quality of the input needed for the design routines
- Continuous optimization of the used tools by formulating process improvements, adapting IT applications and/or architecture, recommendations for atomization

Requirements:

Degree & Experience

- Master degree in electronics/electrical engineering or geography
- Up to five years experience in a similar job
- Telco /IT engineering background is a MUST

Technical skills

- Sound experience with telecom networks, the physical elements as well as related equipment

Attitudes/Behavior

- High sense of responsibility
- Result and customer oriented
- Good coordination, planning and organisational talents
- Good communication and reporting skills (written, oral), able to present
- Analytical troubleshooting and problem-solving skills
- Possesses good spacial awareness and affinity with Geo related issues
- Precise, eye for detail and quality driven
- Team player

Languages

English

Start: 2019-11-03 23:00:00